

Handwritten in a black Gothic script, the text reads "Kunstm
Saker". The letters are highly stylized, featuring sharp, pointed terminals and elaborate flourishes. The word "Kunstm" is on the top line, and "Saker" is on the bottom line. The script is dense and formal, characteristic of late 15th or early 16th-century book illumination.